“ Words cannot describe how much I will miss absolutely everything about you, Robby. I've never loved anyone in my entire life as fast as I loved you. The minute we became friends I knew we were meant to find each other. I miss your smile, your amazing laugh, the way you could turn anything into a joke and make me smile. Our lives fell apart, and in that process we fell together. We smiled together. We had so many plans :(I promise I will follow through with them. I will make you proud, and keep you in my heart every single day of my life. I love you so much, and I am so grateful for the time that I had with you. I will forever cherish every last moment. Until we meet again ♡ Rest in peace, love.

“ Sometimes life helps you meet those that become important in your life. Robbie became important to my life because his spouse was an important part of my life. I came to know Lance through my job at work. Almost immediately I discovered he was married to Robbie. Lance trained me in my position at work and was the best teacher I ever had. I came to love him as a great friend during this time. I also came to learn that Robbie, Lances spouse, worked on our contract as well. Although I tried to get closer to him, he let me know, in his way, that although I was okay, we really had nothing in common to become friends for. So with that, I settled for the relationship I had with Lance.

It does not mean I will not forever miss Robbie. Please be happy wherever you are.

“ I remember a night where Robby, Lance, Tiffany, Perry, My husband Jason and I all went to the comedy club in Portland and had dinner and watched a show. I don't remember who the comedian was, but I remember Robby laughing so hard at the jokes he was crying. Was a great night. That laugh was one you will never forget. Wanted to go to another show but we all got busy in life. RIP Robby. You are very missed.
